

Intercultural Communication Workshop for International Female Doctoral Students

“How can I be a competent intercultural female communicator?”

You must communicate with your supervisor, colleagues, project-peers, administration staff who are culturally and/or ethnically different. These people must have cultural backgrounds which are slightly to very different from yours. Thus, trainings with great focus on female performance are needed to enhance understanding of cross-cultural communication.

Intercultural communication competence passport allows you to:

- ✚ Increase productivity
- ✚ Better teamwork and cooperation
- ✚ Raise awareness of equality and diversity
- ✚ Communicate with a large number of people
- ✚ Promote the self in the job market
- ✚ Have the competitive advantage
- ✚ develop international business networking

By the end of this workshop, you will be able to:

- ✓ Increase your self-esteem as a female PhD researcher
- ✓ Identify misunderstanding or ethnocentric aspects to understand the cultural differences
- ✓ Plan and implement strategies to improve intercultural communication skills
- ✓ Suspend disbelief and stereotypes
- ✓ Be open to know about social groups and their products and services
- ✓ Discover, interact, interpret and relate cultural documents and events
- ✓ Mediate in intercultural interactions

Day: November 25, 2022, 10am-01pm (short break)

Place: Poppelsdorfer Allee 102

Coach: Nadya Izzaamiouine

Language: English

Registration: s.papel@uni-bonn.de

Contact:

Sandra Papel

International Office, Section 6.3.

International Students and Study Programs

Poppelsdorfer Allee 102, 53115 Bonn