

There is one at the medical faculty of the Medicine of Rheinische Friedrich-Wilhelms-Universität Bonn,

W1 professorship for vaccine research
(tenure track procedure with option on W2 after 6 years)

to be filled as soon as possible.

We are looking for a researcher with a focus on vaccine research, vaccine development (adjuvants, antigen, protein structure), immunology or virology. The professorship will further strengthen the research priorities of the Faculty of Medicine with the Cluster of Excellence ImmunoSensation². Particularly desired are scientific qualifications in the fields of protein crystallography, structural biology, B-cell response, antibody development, the development of DNA, RNA and/or viral vector vaccines for human pathogenic viral infectious diseases. The responsibilities of the professorship include the establishment of an own research program in the field of research on vaccines against viral diseases as well as active participation in teaching.

Acquisition of competitive third-party funding and integration into national and international research networks are expected.

The University of Bonn attaches particular importance to the quality of teaching. Didactic approaches to teaching, also taking into account the profile of the University of Bonn, should be presented.

Prerequisites for employment are a completed medical or scientific university degree, proof of scientific achievements as well as experience in teaching pursuant to Section 36 of the Higher Education Act of North Rhine-Westphalia (Hochschulgesetz - HG NRW). Good English skills are a prerequisite.

The University of Bonn is committed to diversity and equal opportunity. It is a certified family-friendly university and has a dual career service. It aims to increase the proportion of women in areas where women are under-represented and to promote their careers in particular. It therefore urges women with relevant qualifications to apply. Applications will be handled in accordance with the State Equality Act of North Rhine-Westphalia (Landesgleichstellungsgesetz - LGG). Applications by suitable individuals with a certified severe disability and those of equal status are particularly welcome.
