| Goals/contents | The Coach, Prof. Dr. Annette Kolb, has almost 20 years of professional experience in the scientific field in various (leading) roles and with stations at different German and foreign universities. 2014 she decided to leave the university in order to start her own business as a consultant and trainer for academics. She is a certified systemic coach (DGfC).
At the individual one-hour coaching sessions you can work with her on the following key topics:
Career Planning Inside Academia
- Planning and optimizing your academic career
- Evaluating your current academic profile
- Specify your next goals and the major steps towards qualifying for long-term academic career
- Applying for professorship
- How to present yourself and your academic profile successfully and how to emphasize your particular expertise
- Conflicting priorities of intellectual independence, on the one hand, and meeting professional obligations towards your employers, on the other hand
- Prioritize the diverse tasks of a postdoc from developing your independent publication record, applying for external funding, creating a distinct research profile, building a teaching portfolio, to communicate your research, build a network and undertake research stays abroad, etc.
Orientation: Career Inside or Outside Academia
- Reflect the options and requirements for a university career and alternative career paths outside the university
- Get to know your own competences better and evaluate your own 'market value'
- Identify your professional interests and motives
Career Planning Outside Academia
- Recognize possible career paths outside academia (for example in the public, industry, or economy sector)
- Which of my skills and experiences are most attractive for non-academic employers?
- Check your application documents |
