Any participant of the Summer School on Development Policy must have insurance covering health, accident and personal liability risks.

The Summer School is not able to provide health, accident and liability insurance. It is the responsibility of the participants to take care of such insurance coverage.

The University of Bonn’s liability for any damage occurring during the program (including excursions, social activities, leisure programs etc.) is limited to the extent legally possible.

The applicable law for the implementation of the program is German law.
Please read the following statements thoroughly and confirm that you have understood the contents by checking each box:

☐ I hereby confirm that I was informed about the requirement for health, accident and liability insurance and that it is in my responsibility to take care of such insurance coverage.

☐ I understand that the University of Bonn is in no way liable for any accident occurring while travelling to and from Bonn. I also understand that the University of Bonn’s liability for any damage occurring during the program (including excursions, social activities, leisure programs etc.) is limited to the extent legally possible.

☐ I furthermore understand that all costs that occur due to a medical need that are not covered by any insurance must be borne by me.

I hereby enrol for the Summer School on Development Policy and understand and accept the participation regulations stipulated on the website, the application form and other documents provided by the organizer.
